

Antoine Selah, a French visual artist born in Mont-Saint-Aignan in 1993 and based in Paris, explores the ephemeral to capture the visual and aesthetic essence of his everyday life. Motivated by a desire to transcribe the raw energy of the visual shocks he observes, he transforms these impressions into abstract works in which each line is an instinctive response. Playing with the constraints of his practice - varied media, limited tools and reduced time - and aware of ecological issues, he recycles materials and surfaces to create a free, rhythmic graphic language. His work spans painting, drawing, collage, sculpture, publishing and photography, forming a constantly evolving body of artistic research.
